BERLIN BOMBED VIOLENTLY FOR HOURS

TWENTY-EIGHT NAZI PLANES BAGGED WHEN ATTACKS INTENSIFIED

Enemy Uses 500 Aircraft in Heavy Assaults Marked By Fierce Dogfights at Great Altitudes—Ten London Districts and Many Outside Areas Are Bombed in Night Raids

LONDON, Oct. 8 (CP).—Hitler's night raiders attempted to make up for lost time last night and early today by striking hard at a number of London districts following a day of fierce "substratosphere" dogfights above the capital.

Deprived of their timetable—assaults Sunday night by storm-swept skies for the first time in thirty days, the raiders swept back with the stars to lunge repeatedly at the metropolis. In all, ten London districts and a number of provincial areas were sprayed with high explosive and incendiary bombs.

A southeast coast town was subjected to an ordeal of incendiary bombs which struck residential areas rather than military objectives. No casualties were announced.

LULL AT MIDNIGHT
About midnight, the raid on London itself lulled, then flared again periodically until dawn, marked by the occasional drone of a plane, whistle of a bomb and crackle of gunfire.

While this was going on, a German plane spread a smoke screen on the French coast opposite Dover, and

RUSSIAN-U.S. TALKS RESUMED

Meetings Arouse Speculation Over Moscow's View Of Axis Alliance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP).—American-Russian diplomatic talks were resumed here unexpectedly tonight after a lapse of two months and resulted in new speculation that Russia may not like the Japanese-German-Italian alliance.

Constantine Coudan, the Soviet Ambassador, called at the State Department and conferred with Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state. The only comment available at the department was that it was a resumption of the talks begun last summer.

An indication that Russia and Great Britain might also be seeking friendly relations was a conference last week in London between Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maskaev and R. A. Butler, British foreign under-secretary.

STUDY SITUATION

Admiral James O. Richardson, commander of the United States fleet, flew into Washington from the West Coast today and plunged immediately into conferences with Secretary Frank Knox and other high navy officials regarding the troubled situation in the Pacific.

Sitting in on the conference was Rear-Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired, former commander of the Asiatic fleet, who has been advocating increased economic pressure on Japan, more aid to China, larger American forces in the Philippines and other measures to reverse "Japan's foreign policy."

Unfortunately, there was some conjecturing as to whether the navy might be planning the use of it would make of the strongly fortified British naval base at Singapore in the event Great Britain makes it available to the United States.

French Flyers Land Planes At Gibraltar

LONDON, Oct. 7 (CP).—The headquarters of General de Gaulle, leader of French forces still fighting with Britain, announced tonight that eight French pilots had been shot down en route from North Africa to Gibraltar, but that "large numbers" had reached the British fortress "despite heavy odds."

Nazi Troops in Rumania Keep Watch, Is Claim

Germans Give Undercover British Activity as Excuse for Policing Oil Fields—London Dissatisfied With Rumania's Explanation of Mistreatment of British Subjects

BERLIN, Oct. 7 (AP).—Nazi sources claimed today German troops had entered Rumania because a watch against undercover British activity in that Kingdom's oil fields was necessary.

In Bucharest, Rumanian officials said reports of arrival of German troops were "premature." A Government statement mentioned close collaboration and technical aid promised the Rumanian army, especially by Germany.

There was no indication of how many German troops entered Rumania.

TO POLICE FIELDS
Nazi sources, hinting Germany may have decided to police the oil fields, said Germany fears sabotage by British agents in Constantia and other Rumanian oil centres. Also they said, Great Britain might try to get at Rumania's oil by way of Turkey.

It may be assumed, these sources said, that as one outcome of last Friday's Brenner meeting between Hitler and Mussolini the Turks will be put under diplomatic pressure and a possible military threat.

SEVEN RAIDERS SEEN TO CRASH

German Aircraft "Penned Up" Over English Coast During Dogfight

WEYMOUTH, England, Oct. 7 (CP).—A series of flaming dogfights aged high in the skies over Southwest England late today and seven German raiders were seen to crash in the fields around Dorsetshire villages.

Eyewitnesses reported that so harassed were the German attackers by anti-aircraft fire and R.A.F. fighters that for more than half an hour they were "penned up" over a short strip of coast—unable to go on or escape back out to sea.

Planes were observed falling at Sydlin, Cerne Abbas, Buckland Newton, Preston, Weymouth, Kingston Russell, Burton Bradstock and Corfe Castle.

SEEN BY HUNDREDS
The end of one of the German bombers was seen by hundreds at Weymouth. Attacked by a Spitfire, the Nazi plane crashed into the sea.

Two of the crash escaped by parachute. In all, six German airmen were reported taken prisoners.

Another Nazi plane crashed 100 yards from Corfe Castle police station. Policemen rescued the pilot. His companion was dead.

Heavy Damage Done In Nazi City During Sharpest Assault Yet

From Europe Day by Day—THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1940, by Southam Co.)
LONDON, Oct. 7 (By Cable).—Evidence now tends to show that Hitler's mind is turning more and more towards Egypt and the Middle East, although he is not abandoning his air assault on Britain, says The Times' diplomatic correspondent.

The strategic plan, in all probability, was laid down at the Brenner meeting as formidable as the Axis could make it. And there is every likelihood that, apart from military strokes, Hitler will develop his political hold as best he can in the Vichy-controlled districts of North Africa, perhaps hoping to be helped in this field by Franco.

Plans for countering the Axis mischief, however, adds The Times, are by no means the sum nor the one-tenth of Britain's war activity. Military and diplomatic.

"Deaths not words" say the Germans about the Brenner meeting. So say the British.

In Germany the disastrous effects of British bombing are only a foretaste of what can be done. In diplomacy the new three-power pact has already opened up possibilities elsewhere which Britain is quietly following up.

The Vatican is reported to be increased because Spanish Minister Sener, when in Rome, failed to visit the Pope. The reason appears to be that the Pope would have urged Spain to keep out of the war, and this does not suit Sener's plans for collaboration with Germany and Italy.

Also Franco wants to appoint Spanish bishops and the Pope objects.

Seven hundred raids which the Royal Air Force has undertaken since the outbreak of the war have damaged or destroyed 200 military targets, including oil depots, armament works, refineries, docks, naval bases, railway yards, junctions, barges and shipping.

This systematic destruction has not only impeded German invasion plans, but slowed up the German war output.

Royal Air Force raids will continue all through the winter, extending ever deeper into Germany. British air victories have greatly encouraged all those in France opposed to the Petain Government.

The French working class, according to Swiss reports, is strongly pro-British, and many naval men and soldiers as well.

Trustworthy reports received in Istanbul say British oil company employees arrested in Rumania were tortured by having their hands tied high up on the wall and blow lamps applied to their feet.

RAIL TERMINUS BOMBED
KUMMING, China, Oct. 7 (AP).—Japanese flyers tonight bombed the terminus of the railroad from French Indo-China for the second time in a week today, bombing several industrial plants in the southwest suburbs.

NEW YORK Oct. 7 (AP).—The British motor tanker British General reported today she had been torpedoed for the second time in fourteen hours at a position about 700 miles west of Ireland. She said she required immediate assistance.

Mackay Radio picked up two messages, the first yesterday afternoon reported an attack which occurred at 10:30 p.m. P.S.T. The second said she had been torpedoed again, this time at 12:24 p.m. P.S.T. Her position had been changed slightly during the interim, indicating she was drifting in a westerly direction.

The 440-foot, 5,472-ton vessel trades between England and Venezuela. She is owned by Venetian Tanker Company, Ltd.

SAVONA FIRED ON BY BRITISH SUBMARINE
ROME, Oct. 7 (AP).—The Italian High Command reported today that a British submarine fired on the City of Savona, on the Italian coast. Beyond saying that one civilian was killed and six injured, the communiqué gave no details.

There was no word from London on the incident.

Blows at Germany Follow Master Plan of British Force

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (CP).—After three days and nights of peace and security, Berlin was subjected last night and early today to a harassing air raid by British bombers that set a record for violence.

One plane was reported shot down out of the starry sky, but not until it and its fellow bombers started two fires and showered down incendiary and explosive bombs that hit railway lines, and the Nazis claimed, apartment houses and hospitals.

A German communiqué issued shortly after the raid gave a terse outline of what happened in the four-hour and forty-two minutes of bombing and artillery fire which topped all previous raids on the German capital.

GERMANS REPORT DAMAGE
The communiqué:

"In the past night, British planes attacked the Reich's capital and dropped explosive and incendiary bombs at various places.

"Among other things hit were two hospitals, various apartment houses, as well as storehouses and rail lines.

"The fires started were soon brought under control. "Several dead and wounded are to be deplored.

"One airplane was shot down by anti-aircraft artillery." This apparent destruction of a bomber came fairly early in the raid when the plane was at a height semi-officially estimated at 9,000 to 12,000 feet.

A companion plane, apparently seeking to divert some of the lights and gunfire, sped into the glare, but to no avail, and ducked out into the darkness again.

FEW QUIET MOMENTS
During the entire alarm there was scarcely a quiet moment as the bombers dived back and forth across the city, while the cannonading from the ground maintained a hot pace.

Planes often were at several points over the city simultaneously, while circling fingers of light sought to close around them and projectiles exploded with pink, orange and white brilliance in fancy clusters.

Several times four or more flashes in the air at one time, apparently from the planes, drew concentrated fire from small fast-firing guns on the ground.

At least two objects fell within easy hearing distance of The Associated Press offices, but whether they were bombs or unexploded anti-aircraft shells could not be determined.

The lights caught their first plane just an hour after the raiders drew the first fire over the city.

The intensity of the artillery fire was such that the whole horizon of the city was a constant succession of cone-shaped flashes, while light, medium and heavy guns in the interior of the city chorused in such volume that windows of buildings rattled.

The roofs rattled with falling shell fragments.

DEVASTATING RAID
LONDON, Oct. 8 (CP).—British bombers carried the war back to Berlin early today and reports from the Reich capital told of a devastating raid in which the Germans admitted railway objectives were hit. Large fires were started by the Royal Air Force bombers.

The attack followed during daylight raids along the "invasion coast" despite consistently bad weather.

The raids began at dawn, and when they were over, the Ministry said, hits had been scored on the Germans at Ostend, Belgium; Calais and Boulogne, France, and the Netherlands harbors of Harlingen.

Persistent Reports Come of Disastrous Attempted Invasion

Detailed Story Told by New York Sun of Attempt To Cross the English Channel With Hundreds of Barges—Carnage Terrific

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP).—The New York Sun said today it had obtained from an "unofficial British source" what it termed "further evidence" to support a report the paper published on September 11 that the Germans made a "disastrous" attempt to invade Great Britain late in August.

Reports that the Germans several times have failed in invasion attempts have been frequent in the American press in recent weeks. However, British authorities have denied the reports, saying they would be only too glad to announce that an invasion had been repelled.

LONDON, Oct. 7 (CP).—Lambeth Palace, residential seat of the Archbishop of Canterbury, has been made uninhabitable by German bombs which fell some time ago, it was disclosed today.

The bombs forced the Archbishop and his staff to move to residence in Canterbury.

The entire central section of the palace was struck on the river side by Nazi bombs.

SEVEN MEN LOST AT SEA

Eleven Other Canadians Known Saved From Sinking British Tanker

HALIFAX, Oct. 7 (CP).—Seven Nova Scotian seamen—possibly more—were posted tonight as "missing and presumed lost" after the British oil tanker Frederick S. Fales, carrying thirty-two Canadians in her crew, had sunk in the North Atlantic on a voyage from this country to Britain.

The families of eleven other Canadians on the vessel—all these from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island—were known to have been notified of their rescue. But there was no word here tonight on the fate of the other fourteen who signed on at an East Coast Canadian port.

Details not given. Loss of the 10,525-ton tanker was revealed today in letters received by the families of survivors, but the notifications from the Imperial Oil Shipping Company of Toronto said nothing of how "when or where the Fales had foundered." They told only that she was "lost en route to England with some loss of life."

EXPANSION OF NAVY PLANNED

Minister Says Hundred Ships To Be Added to Canadian Fleet in Year

WINNIPEG, Oct. 7 (CP).—Navy Minister Angus Macdonald said in an interview here today that Canada will build 100 additional naval ships during the next year, at a cost of approximately $50,000,000, and will increase her naval personnel from about 12,000 men to 20,000 by the Spring of 1942.

En route from Ottawa to visit Canada's Pacific naval establishments, Mr. Macdonald said expansion probably will involve enlargement of facilities at the naval bases of Halifax and Esquimalt.

Canada's navy had been increased in one year from 113 to 130 vessels, and it was hoped to increase it within a year by another 100 vessels, ranging from destroyers down to smaller craft.

QUESTION NOT SETTLED
It had not been determined whether the Dominion would acquire larger craft such as cruisers, the minister said, explaining enlargement of the Royal Canadian Navy was being carried out after consultation with the British Government.

Questioned concerning disposition of prize money from the German freighter Weser, recently captured by the armed Canadian cruiser Prince Robert, Mr. Macdonald said he understood all prize money from ships captured by navies of all British Empire countries will be pooled and distributed at the end of the war among sailors in the Empire.

Unusual Measures May Be Necessary If Rain Holds Off

B.C. Electric Company May Be Forced to Preserve Jordan River Water, Owing to Burning Out of Stand-By Generators in Electrical Storms

WITH two auxiliary plants crippled by the burning out of the big generators in the two severe electrical storms which swept over Southern Vancouver Island recently, the B.C. Electric Railway Company is confronted with the problem of meeting a combination of circumstances which could not have been foreseen, A. T. Goward, vice-president of the company, said yesterday.

"While I do not wish to convey the impression that a power shortage is imminent, the fact remains that, should an absence of rain be long continued, it may be necessary to take some practical precautions to preserve in every way possible the water now available at Jordan River. It seems reasonable to suppose that we may expect a change in the weather at any time, and a few days of rain will quickly make good the somewhat depleted condition of our reservoirs at the present time."

ABNORMAL YEAR

Mr. Goward explained that the company's power development at Jordan River, in common with other such developments on the Pacific Coast, depended entirely upon water storage to equalize the high and low water periods in the river.

This year, first of all because of an entire absence of snow on the watershed, which normally melts off later in the year, and because of the scanty rainfall, particularly during the spring and early summer, the company took unusual precautions to have a maximum of stored water on hand to carry over until the rainy weather set in, by putting the stand-by steam plants in operation much earlier than usual, thus diminishing the demands that otherwise would have been made upon the stored water at Jordan River.

"But, as so often happens, the best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley," and so it turned out to be in this instance, the vice-president commented.

Some weeks ago, he said, the district was visited by an unusually severe electrical storm, during which lightning entered one of the reserve plants, and burned out one of the large generating units. This was a serious matter, but not an insurmountable one, and it meant throwing that much more load on the Jordan River plant. Two weeks later, another severe electrical storm visited this district and lightning struck the Brentwood Bay steam plant, burning out a second large generator. As a result, practically the full load had to be thrown on Jordan River, causing heavy inroads on the stored water that normally would have been available for use at a much later date.

UNIQUE OCCURRENCE

"The situation, naturally, is causing some concern to B.C. Electric officials," Mr. Goward continued. "An adequate supply of water at Jordan River to carry over the dry season has always been one of our chief concerns and until this year we have had no difficulty in meeting the situation. This year, however, we have had to contend with a combination of circumstances which could not possibly have been foreseen—two electrical storms of unusual severity resulting in the crippling of two large generating units, an occurrence before unknown in the entire history of the company. All this could not have happened at a more inopportune time from an operating point of view. This is the time of year when we normally depend upon our auxiliary steam plants to conserve the use of water at Jordan River until the wet weather sets in. This year, because of conditions already outlined, we are not only deprived of the full use of our auxiliary steam plants at a time when we most rely upon their aid, but we also have had to make heavy inroads upon the water stored in the Jordan River reservoirs following an unusually dry season."

TWENTY-EIGHT NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN

A flotilla of trawlers and other small vessels set out cautiously along the shore behind the screen. Watchers in Dover, who saw the whole procedure, were uncertain of the object.

The night attacks were a continuation of mass daylight forays in which the Royal Air Force broke up formation after formation of German bombers and fighters were shot down during the daylight battles; the number of raiders was decreased authoritatively to have numbered nearly 500.

LARGE BUILDINGS HIT

A "Molotov breadbasket" was dropped during the night near a large West End store adjoining others wrecked by heavy calibre bombs a fortnight ago. A high explosive bomb also damaged a large and famous West End structure now used as an office building and an incendiary fell near a bank in that vicinity but was extinguished.

Other Nazi formations were reported to have dropped bombs in a thickly populated area of a south-east Scottish town during the night. One explosive struck near a "Pittment" and a number of people were cut by flying glass. The ceilings of nearby buildings collapsed from the impact.

From before dawn until after dusk Monday night London had experienced six air raid alarms.

TEN-MINUTE INTERVALS

In the night assault the Nazi bombers frequently changed directions in an effort to escape the sweeping searchlights and inferno of shell bursts sent up by ground batteries. But they kept coming at ten-minute intervals.

British warplanes were on patrol in the darkness outside the great ring of lights.

As the night wore on, additional reports came in of raiders over Northeast England, the highly industrialized Midlands, the northeast and west coasts.

Some German craft hovered over a northeast coastal area two hours. Drooping fliers and blazing intense anti-aircraft fire, they dropped bombs some distance inland.

A series of heavy detonations sounded in London's central area and many incendiaries rained down, hitting one bus, starting fires in a big block of apartments and causing the sky to flame red briefly.

INVISIBLE BATTLE

The Air Ministry, describing the day's actions, in which twenty-eight German bombers and fighters were sent crashing, said an invisible battle was fought between Hurricanes and more than fifty Messerschmitts nearly six miles above London.

Fourteen British craft were missing but the pilots of six were safe. British airmen appeared into big formations totaling perhaps 450 planes, which five times attempted to reach London during the day, and then tackled another mass of fighters which crossed the Dorset coast near the big naval base at Weymouth.

The German squadrons were said, by the Air Ministry, to have been forced upward by clear weather and to have "concentrated on height and speed." Many of them were fighter planes, loaded with bombs.

Three times day raiders were turned aside, but in other attempts the Germans penetrated the capital district, dropped bombs in the south-eastern outskirts, causing death, injury and destruction for a few of London's millions in two boroughs.

The Air Ministry said damage was done to a "southwest town" (probably Weymouth).

MANY LONG CHASES

"The day was one of long chases, often ending far out from land," the Air Ministry related.

"A running fight over London began about 1:30 p.m., when Hurricanes attacked fifty Messerschmitts and four Heinkel 111 fighters at 30,000 feet.

"The Hurricanes chased them from London far over the Channel, sending two Messerschmitts crashing into the sea and a third was downed on land.

"Spitfires at 27,000 feet chased forty Messerschmitts from the middle of Surrey nearly to France. A single Dornier 215 bomber attacked by three Spitfires put up the best fight of the day.

"A Spitfire pilot spoke approvingly of the German rear gunner's intense and accurate fire. As the Spitfires circled and dived on him he kept fighting back. Not until the Dornier was over the Channel did the rear gunner stop firing. Then the Dornier plunged down."

All but two of the German craft downed over Surrey were Messerschmitts.

Copper Exports Under Dominion Control in B.C.

BEYOND reiterating that export of copper ores and concentrates from the province came under full Federal control, Provincial Government circles avoided official comment yesterday on a Mainland protest that concentrates were being shipped direct to the Orient.

Mr. W. J. Asselstine, in a verbal statement, said Granby and Britannia copper mines would be forced to close if exports were prohibited, as British Columbia has no copper smelters. Copper production last year was placed at 70,000,000 pounds.

schmitts, the Air Ministry announced. It added that by contrast German bombers and fighter-bombers "suffered heavily" during a mid-afternoon raid over Dorset and Somerset.

"Some fifty raiders took part in this West Country attack and reports so far received show that nearly a quarter of them were destroyed," it said.

Spitfires from West Country fighters shot down at least five heavy bombers, six Messerschmitt 110 fighter-bombers and one Messerschmitt 109.

A communiqué said a few bombs were dropped shortly after dark on Sunday night by a lone raider on the outskirts of the London area, "causing little damage and no casualties."

Elsewhere in England, no overnight attacks were reported. Flying conditions were reported extremely unfavorable. A gale lashed heavy seas in the English Channel and rain continued in drizzle through the night and visibility at Dover was still poor. After dawn through the sun came out.

STREET STRAFING RESUMED

Sunday daylight attacks brought a resumption of street strafing by low-flying planes. Three streets in Eastern London were splattered with machine-gun bullets.

Four women and a child were reported killed at Folkestone by a dive bomber.

Some twenty districts around London and in Southeastern England were attacked, many of the planes diving from cloudbanks which hid them from Royal Air Force fighter patrols and ground gun crews.

An undisclosed number of casualties was reported in raids on the East Midlands and East Anglia, and some houses were demolished in an unidentified town in Northamptonshire.

At least one raiding bomber was counted shot down despite weather conditions, which the Air Ministry "made no reception by our fighters difficult."

H. S. Baxter Informs Court That He Joined Army to Keep Out Of Trouble

"I joined the army to keep out of trouble," Herby Scott Baxter, a soldier, informed Magistrate Henry C. Hall in the city police court when giving evidence on his own behalf yesterday on a charge of having attempted to steal a car from Earl B. Flinn on October 2.

"It is a pity that you did not, remarked Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor. He revealed that the accused had been sentenced on four previous occasions for theft and false pretences between February 7, 1938, and March 20, 1940.

Leonard M. West, an employee of the Empress Hotel, gave evidence of hearing an attempt to start a car about 1:30 o'clock on the morning of October 2. He also said he heard a scuffle and later saw the accused in charge of Albert Pritchard, house officer.

Constable Stephen Durnell identified the accused as a person who had been found in the accused's pockets.

Baxter swore that he had been drinking on the night of October 1 and remembered nothing until he found in the front seat of the car by Pritchard. His alibi was that he had been asleep in the car and had no intention of stealing it. He was remanded until this morning for sentence.

REPORTS PERSIST OF INVASION

They were said to have taken part in the action to repel the invaders.

The Sun continued: "The New York Sun's information is that at dawn on the morning of the attempted invasion the German big guns in the vicinity of Cape Cirk Nes began a bombardment of the English coast. Royal Air Force flyers took to the air to silence them and encountered a strong force of Nazi bombers and fighters."

"From the fog and haze of the sea there emerged hundreds of flat-bottomed barges, each carrying about 200 German soldiers wearing full field equipment. While the British flyers battled the German air force, the land batteries raked the barges with fire. The carnage was terrific."

INVASION HELPERS

"Evidently the Germans had counted on their airmen silencing the land batteries before they could annihilate the invaders who were helping themselves. The barges carried no artillery, probably because their only hope of getting across the mine fields safely was their light draft, which would have been deepened by the weight of guns and ammunition."

"Because their draft was not more than six feet, they did not negotiate the mine fields, but the withering fire from the land sank them as fast as they appeared. The extremely shallow draft of the craft probably explains why it is believed that an invasion could not be attempted except when the Channel lay quiet and smooth."

RETREAT CUT OFF

"Meanwhile, detachments of the British fleet, which had been hovering along the south coast of England, pushed in behind the barges and cut them off from France. Whether or not any German tor-

They were said to have taken part in the action to repel the invaders.

The Sun continued: "The New York Sun's information is that at dawn on the morning of the attempted invasion the German big guns in the vicinity of Cape Cirk Nes began a bombardment of the English coast. Royal Air Force flyers took to the air to silence them and encountered a strong force of Nazi bombers and fighters."

"From the fog and haze of the sea there emerged hundreds of flat-bottomed barges, each carrying about 200 German soldiers wearing full field equipment. While the British flyers battled the German air force, the land batteries raked the barges with fire. The carnage was terrific."

INVASION HELPERS

"Evidently the Germans had counted on their airmen silencing the land batteries before they could annihilate the invaders who were helping themselves. The barges carried no artillery, probably because their only hope of getting across the mine fields safely was their light draft, which would have been deepened by the weight of guns and ammunition."

"Because their draft was not more than six feet, they did not negotiate the mine fields, but the withering fire from the land sank them as fast as they appeared. The extremely shallow draft of the craft probably explains why it is believed that an invasion could not be attempted except when the Channel lay quiet and smooth."

RETREAT CUT OFF

"Meanwhile, detachments of the British fleet, which had been hovering along the south coast of England, pushed in behind the barges and cut them off from France. Whether or not any German tor-

Hon. Sidney Smith Will Preside Over Assizes in Victoria

MR. Justice Sidney A. Smith, who was recently appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, will preside at the Fall Assizes, which will open here this morning at the Courthouse at 11 o'clock. Ronald Albin Miles will face a charge of murdering his wife, Edith Albin Miles, at 1329 Esquimalt Road, on August 30. J. B. Corrhue, K.C., is Crown prosecutor, and the accused will be represented by Stuart Henderson.

"The sun had risen meanwhile, dissipating the fog which had cloaked the trip across the Channel for the invaders and perfect visibility made the accuracy of the fire of the defenders even greater. When it was apparent that the barges could not reach the shore, the naval units withdrew to safety, leaving the Channel filled with bodies and wreckage."

"The barges, The Sun was told, were very light wooden and metal affairs hand propelled and obviously intended for only a one-way trip. The propulsion mechanism is similar to that used on the newest-type hand-driven lifeboats. Levers along the sides connect with a drive shaft, which is geared to a propeller, and the more men work the levers back and forth, the faster the craft will travel. The German barges were capable of making ten to twelve knots."

Veteran Impatient At Being Restrained From Actual Battle

Adjutant at R.A.F. Fighter Station Anxious To Take Part in Aerial Combat—Says Canadian Airmen Are Grand Bunch

B. D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

R. A. F. FIGHTER STATION, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 7 (CP).—For nearly an hour the slightly stooped figure of the station adjutant could be seen pacing the narrow confines of the officers' mess building.

Hands behind his back, a cigarette drooping from his lips, he had begun his lone watch immediately word was flashed to the station that the All-Canadian Squadron was en route home after one of its most successful battles.

Time after time he would stop to listen. Then he halted, dropped his cigarette and ground it slowly out with his foot as he cocked his ears again. Suddenly he raced to the mess door and shouted:

"Here they come, boys. Out everybody, here they come. Through the door filed a score of air force officers and a number of others from the army. They united in a cheer as the first Hurricane thundered over the field. Officers followed in single file, disappearing again like darting swallows.

RACES FOR LANDING FIELD
The adjutant, the left of his chest almost covered by a patchwork of ribbons for bravery and service, tugged my sleeve and pulled me into his nearby car.

Over the rough roads we raced, without lights, ignoring the warning (which can be seen only in daylight) that no traffic must proceed over ten miles an hour. It was impossible to see the road but it was too dangerous to switch on lights that might attract enemy planes at a time when four-fifths of our own fighters were just settling on the ground.

We bounced along and came screeching to a halt near the dispersal just as the second plane was gliding in.

"The colonel," as the Canadians affectionately call him, jumped from his car and took up a position by which the flyers would have to pass as they checked in. As they came along, grinning and waving to acknowledge the welcome from the ground crews, the adjutant shook hands with each one.

IN NO HURRY NOW
"What a grand bunch, these Canadians," he said, with deep feeling, after all members of the squadron were grounded and he returned to his car. He bowed out his car and started back for the mess, with one holding tight. But he only sort of dawdled along about thirty-five miles an hour. There was no hurry to get back anyway. He wanted to talk.

"I wish I could go up there with them," he lamented. "I tried to be a pilot, I tried to be an observer, an operator, a gunner, anything at all so long as I could go with the boys. But they wouldn't hear of it. I guess I'm lucky to have landed this job. The army wouldn't have anything more to do with me. Too old. Time to retire." And his tone was one of disgust.

"Well, sir," I interrupted, "just how old are you, if I may ask?"

IN THIRD YEAR
"Certainly you may ask," he said, "but I won't tell you. I can't. See, it's my third year. And I was retired nearly ten years back. Lots of men are still good at seventy—or thereabouts. But what makes me annoyed is the fact that they won't let me be even a gunner. And I'm a good shot, a damned good shot and my eyes are perfect. Why I can see.

Terrific grinding of brakes interrupted him. Just faintly I could see the form of another car that had been forced halfway into the ditch. We, too, were halfway in on the other side. The fenders were scraping. Both cars finally eased away.

"Careless devil," said the colonel. "If he can't see he shouldn't be driving at night. Now what was I telling you?"

"You were just telling me, colonel, what good eyes you had."

SAYS LONDON IS UNDAUNTED

Randolph Hokanson, Here For Recital, Speaks of Music in England

It takes more than an average disturbance to stop music in London. Randolph Hokanson, the brilliant young American pianist, who is to play here tomorrow night for the Victoria Musical Art Society, said yesterday he had just received a letter, dated August 28, from Howard Ferguson, well-known English pianist, of London, commenting in the most matter-of-fact way on the continuance of the concerts at Queen's Hall, and reporting that Miss Myra Hess, with whom Hokanson studied when he was in England, was still carrying on her National Gallery concerts.

"If I know the British people at all, they will try to carry on good music," commented Mr. Hokanson when speaking of the possible effect of the war on music in England. He added that he was regularly in receipt of letters from musical friends in London. These were generally hopeful and courageous in spirit. "But," he added, "they were all written before the serious bombing of London began early in September."

ON RECITAL TOUR
Mr. Hokanson, who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Purcell Place, Moss Street, until after his recital here next Wednesday, left for England four and a half years ago with Harold Samuel, who hoped to make of the young American pianist his successor as an exponent of Bach. Mr. Samuel died before he carried out this mission, but one of his most distinguished pupils, Howard Ferguson, and, later, Miss Myra Hess and the great old master, Tobias Matthay, continued the work.

Young Hokanson returned to the United States a little more than a year ago, and now, after an interesting experience in radio and teaching.

SAYS MEXICO FACES CRISIS

Economic Relief Rests With New President, Manuel Avila Camacho

The successful economic return of Mexico is in the hands of the new President, Manuel Avila Camacho, and better times are expected from his regime, it ever, according to X. G. de Quevedo, head of the Bank of Refaccionario de Jalisco, and president of the Guadalajara Chamber of Commerce, who is visiting Victoria for the first time, staying at the Empress Hotel.

With a great increase in the optimism of the people of the country as an incentive, it is expected that the new President, with his more conservative policies than those of his predecessor, President Cardenas, will do much to settle the disturbed internal conditions of the country. Since 1910 Mexico has been hard hit economically, in spite of the rich natural resources of the country.

Indicative of the popularity of the country as a tourist resort, last year was one of the greatest that Mexico has seen for some time, and the Chamber of Commerce president is greatly interested in seeing this popularity increase. It annually draws almost as many American visitors as Canada.

NEW HIGHWAY
One item that will do much to assist the recovery of the country from its financial doldrums is the completion of the new International Highway, leading from Canada right down to Mexico. It is probable that the new regime under President Camacho will back the venture financially, according to Mr. De Quevedo.

The visitor deplored the decreased value of the Mexican dollar, which has dropped from a standard of two equaling one American dollar. It has sent the fortunes of Mexicans tumbling down, until now a former $500,000 sum is worth only $100,000. Mr. De Quevedo, who is accompanied on this trip, his first to this city, by his wife and their two daughters thinks that the city more than holds its own with the high reputation it enjoys in Mexico.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD FINDING SNAPSHOT IDEAS

To get picture ideas, pick an ordinary object—such as the scythe here. It gives you a starting point—and the ideas develop naturally. Almost any object will do, if it's big enough to show up in a picture.

"I've run out of picture ideas," a friend told me the other day. "I don't know what to shoot next." "Nonsense," I told him. "There are plenty of ideas, if you use the right method to find them. What you should do is just pick a subject—any old object that might work into a picture—and use that as a starting point." "For example?" he said. "All right," I replied, and showed him the picture above. "Suppose you saw that scythe somewhere—say at a farmhouse where you staid. Alone it wouldn't be a picture. Yet, by enlisting the owner's aid, you could get a whole series. You could show him sharpening it, carrying it, over his shoulder as he started out to work, using it in the field. A close-up of the blade shearing through grain stalks might be interesting. You see, it's all a matter of putting two and two together." "I begin to understand," he said. "Pick something that may lead to a picture—and then build picture ideas around it." "Exactly; and here's another example," I said. "Your little girl has a doll buggy, but I haven't seen it anywhere in your picture collection. Why not show her using it—there's a whole series of pictures. Show her placing a doll in the buggy—wheeling it down the front porch steps—along the street or house walk—and so forth. Picture her with a playmate, too, discussing how well the doll looks today." "And here's another idea. I know she has a huge teddy-bear. All right—pose the teddy-bear as if pushing the buggy, and have your daughter showing him how to push properly. Arrange it nicely, and you'll have a clever, unusual shot." "So, that's really all there is to it. Pick a starting point—any ordinary object that could fit into a picture—and the picture ideas come quite naturally. Load up your camera and try it. You'll find the system works—and what's more, every picture will have a story to tell."

British Columbia is producing gold to the total of the present capacity of its mines and equipment in operation. Hon. W. J. Aseltine said yesterday, on return from an extended inspection of gold and other properties in the North. For some years past the production has been stepped up successively, until it is believed that now a peak has been reached for the present.

From annual returns of some $3,000,000 a year, gold production in the province has risen steadily until in recent years it has been valued at between $18,000,000 and $21,000,000 per annum for placer and lode gold operations, combined.

Any further extensions must come from the opening up of new properties, or increase in plant capacity where viable ores justify that course. The Minister indicated Mr. Aseltine mentioned the new mill being erected at Zeballos; and said that prospects in the Bear River section on Vancouver Island also appeared favorable.

Shoots Himself Playing With Gun

NORTH VANCOUVER, Oct. 7 (CP).—Raymond C. Jones, fourteen-year-old North Vancouver youth widely known as a boy soprano, accidentally shot himself in the basement of his home Sunday while playing soldier. He died in an ambulance en route to hospital.

Coroner Dr. Harold Dyer said no inquest will be necessary.

Police said young Jones was drilling with a .22-calibre rifle. In play, he pointed the loaded gun at himself and pulled the trigger.

LIVED IN CITY THIRTY YEARS

Mrs. E. Hamilton-Smith Died Suddenly Yesterday in Jubilee Hospital

Mrs. E. Hamilton-Smith, 2753 Cavendish Avenue, passed away early yesterday morning at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Although she had been a patient there for the last five months, as the result of an accident, she was making very satisfactory progress lately, and her death was quite unexpected. She was seventy-two years of age.

Born in St. Catharines, Scotland, Mrs. Hamilton-Smith received her early education in Inverary and Edinburgh, but later went to England, then to Germany and France for further study. An accomplished linguist, she accepted with alacrity an invitation about this time to go to Bucharest, Rumania, where she spent the following two years, an experience much more unusual at that time than it would be in this century.

MARRIED IN SCOTLAND

Soon after leaving Rumania she joined her mother in a trip to North America, and made an extended visit in Washington, D.C. Here, as in her previous travels, she made many interesting and lifelong friendships.

She was married in Scotland shortly after her return from the United States, and very soon afterwards accompanied her husband back to this continent when Mr. Hamilton-Smith was appointed principal of New Bloomfield Academy at Pennsylvania. This proved another interesting experience, which continued for about three years, until they decided to return to Scotland. Before doing so, they visited the Pacific Coast, spending about six months in Victoria, which they liked so much that eventually they returned here to live. This was twenty-nine years ago. Mrs. Hamilton-Smith had lived here ever since.

A GREAT READER

A great reader and student, she was one of the faithful supporters of the University Extension lectures, which she regularly attended until she suffered an accident last April. She was also a member of the Women's Canadian Club; had belonged to L'Alliance Francaise here since its inception, being treasurer of the society at the time of her death; and was a member of Christ Church Cathedral Women's Auxiliary. Both inside and outside these organizations she had many sincere friends.

She is survived by one daughter, Miss Elizabeth Patricia Hamilton-Smith; one son, Robert Arthur Hamilton-Smith; and one grandson, all of Victoria. Her husband, who was on the teaching staff at Victoria High School, predeceased her several years ago.

GERMANY'S "MILITARY" OBJECTIVES

Lambeth Palace, which has sustained severe damage from a German bomb, is on the Surrey side of the Thames, and about a quarter of a mile from Westminster Bridge. For seven centuries this Tudor pile has been the London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury. It stands in what is known as the Archbishop's Park, comprising ten acres, and adjoining the south gateway of the Palace is St. Mary's Church, which contains the graves of six archbishops. The part of the Palace itself occupied by the Primates was rebuilt in 1834. Some of the older portions of the buildings are the Gatehouse, built by Cardinal Morton in 1499; the Lollards' Tower, erected by Archbishop Chicheley about 1450; it was in the latter that the followers of Wycliffe were tortured and imprisoned. The Great Hall of the Palace was the work of Archbishop Juxon, who had the distinction in history of having attended Charles I. on the scaffold. A part of the Palace which attracts public attention is the Guard Chamber, which contains portraits of archbishops by Reynolds, Lawrence, Herkomer, and others. In the gardens of the Palace there are some luxuriant fig trees which are very old, in fact reputed to have been brought from Spain and planted by Cardinal Pole, Legate to the Court of Queen Mary.

The destruction wrought on Lambeth Palace is only a part of that perpetrated in the area in the vicinity of Westminster Bridge. It is clear that the Germans are making a definite attempt to destroy historic places in London. Westminster Abbey itself has sustained some damage, so have the Parliament Buildings and St. Margaret's Church. The fact that these buildings are so close to Whitehall is a clear indication that the Nazi bombers have been instructed to destroy Government buildings. Downing Street itself is one of the objectives. All this, of course, is senseless vandalism, for no military purpose could be achieved.

The Germans may destroy all the material monuments of an ancient and stately civilization, but what they cannot destroy is the spirit of the people. They may even level Westminster Abbey to the ground and blast the grave of the Unknown Soldier. The traditions of the people do not live in piles of masonry, but in the faith of the past, which enables them to look with fearless eyes upon the future.

WOMEN AND WAR WORK

The Women's Service Club, an organization which saw its inception in Victoria during the present War, and which has now spread to several centres of population in the Dominion, is not recognized by Ottawa as a woman's auxiliary of war effort. Naval, military and air authorities have made no attempt to avail themselves of the co-operation of this organization. In Great Britain conditions are far otherwise. Each of the Services has a woman's auxiliary that is recognized by the Government, and there has been such a mustering of women for war service as has never been known before in the British Isles. It was only a few weeks ago that it was announced that there would be a big expansion in the Women's Royal Naval Service (Wrens) and from 600 to 700 more women are being absorbed in this branch monthly. Moreover, there has been a new development in the work which the Wrens are to perform. The Admiralty has given permission for training in naval cookery to be conducted in the men's naval cookery schools. It will be a course lasting nine weeks and covering both the officers' mess and that of the other ranks and ratings.

Throughout Canada there are a number of those trained through the medium of Women's Service Clubs who are willing to go overseas. Some have received invitations to engage in service in Great Britain as ambulance or motor transport drivers, or in some other capacity. They cannot get employment in war service in this Dominion, and Ottawa refuses them passports to travel overseas, where their services would be welcomed. That is a conception of women's place in the War that cannot but dampen enthusiasm. It is all wrong. Great Britain is steadily recruiting women war workers to engage as auxiliaries to the fighting services, and is prepared to absorb those from the Dominions who are trained, and who will volunteer for the work. The apathy of Ottawa towards this branch of war endeavor extends even to denial that any useful purpose could be served by a women's auxiliary to the Canadian forces which are overseas, for the presumption is that those who desire to organize such a unit would be refused permission to travel to England.

STOUT AND UNSHAKEN

Those who listened to the radio broadcast by John Maynard Keynes, the eminent British economist, on September 23, will heartily agree that as a recital of actual facts without embroidery it should prove very encouraging. Indeed, and should serve as an excellent tonic in these anxious days of war. Professor Keynes stands high in public regard as an economist, and equally high in personal reputation. It is not surprising, therefore, that his statements concerning Great Britain's resources and her ability to wage war effectively have received wide publicity in the press.

What has Professor Keynes to say of Great Britain's losses, up to the present time, her total losses in actual wealth, including gold, shipping, and property on land? She has parted with some of her gold, which was sent to the United States. A million and a half tons of shipping have been sunk by enemy action, and some buildings have been destroyed from the air. Official figures show, however, that the shipping losses have been more than made up by new construction and acquisitions. The damage done to property in London, we are told, "has not exceeded the normal capacity of the building trade." Contrast Great Britain's position, in respect of shipping, with that of Italy or Germany. The former, it appears, has lost one-fourth of her shipping capacity, in vessels sunk or lying idle in neutral harbors, and the rest can operate only in or near Italian waters. Germany has lost one-sixth to one-fifth in vessels captured or sunk; and the remainder is in neutral ports and the remainder is confined largely to the Baltic. As for the so-called "German blockade," all the world knows that the British merchant navy moves freely upon all the oceans.

Professor Keynes assures us that, after a year of war, Great Britain remains richer in national wealth than she was at the beginning of 1937. The national stock of commodities, raw materials and food has been increased rather than diminished. Prices are under control, and no symptoms of currency inflation can be detected. As to personal or national finance, there has been nothing, as yet, to cause excessive anxiety, and the financial outlook for the post-war period is by no means discouraging. Nothing, says Professor Keynes, that has been done or has happened makes insurmountable the tasks of paying for the War and maintaining the standard of living after the War. In fact, people can well look forward with confidence to even higher standards of life after the War than they have yet enjoyed.

THE DE GAULLE MOVEMENT

There is a Canadian Committee of the de Gaulle Movement of Free Frenchmen. It is located in Montreal, a city where there is a colony of 2,500 native-born Frenchmen, and an attempt has been made to establish a nationwide organization. The movement, however, in this Dominion can make no progress, because it has failed to obtain a charter from Ottawa. It cannot send men or materials to the Free Frenchmen in England; it cannot accept subscriptions. It is at a dead end. Information is lacking as to why there is no official sympathy with this movement in Canada. The British Government is giving General de Gaulle assistance; he is officially recognized in London; he was afforded the support of British warships in his expedition to Dakar. It may be that the authorities at Ottawa have good and substantial reasons for not allowing the de Gaulle movement to make any headway in Canada, but surely the public is entitled to know what those reasons are. One of the causes of the official attitude may be that the Vichy Government has a representative at Ottawa. Perhaps it is his influence that is preventing the recognition of the de Gaulle movement in this country.

DESOLATION

"Himmler has obtained the right to condemn any German subjects to death by hanging without trial." (The Times, July 30, 1940.)

Earth has suffered other wars, looked her face, and healed her scars. Hoped for brighter avenirs.

Hope for nothing from the Hun, Earth would never see the sun If the curse of Europe won.

He would bring her night and night, Brainless, endless, sleepless—white With the third degree of light.

Naught to tell, or build, or grow In the mind of man but woe, Sadism and the Gestapo.

Nothing. Zero. Mirth and ruth Banned alike to boot Youth, Adopts Hitler's Book the Truth!

Can one green defended knoll Make the spreading desert whole? Can these locusts of the soul Fail? Can God Almighty trust Us to have His work from dust? Yes, He can because we must.

—Robert Vansittart.

Happy, three happy shall the monarch reign, Where guardian laws despotism power restrain! There shall the plowshare break the stubborn land, And bending harvests tell the peasant's hand. There liberty her settled mansion boasts, There commerce plenty brings from foreign coasts. O better—surely law, the rights defend, So shall these blessings to thy sons descend!

—John Gray, "Epistle to Pulteney" (1718).

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

Three youngsters, in widely separated parts of the town, played yesterday as if they thought there had never before been such a fine day, or a place so wonderful as that in which they found themselves. The first youngster sat bolt upright in a pramulator, the most lively part of a parade of four generations that stroled by trimly, kept public grounds in the heart of the city. At the "noticing" age, this youngster sat bolt upright in the green of the closely-cropped grass, held out both hands to the crinkled oak leaves that dotted the lawn in bright October patterns and laughed out of sheer good nature every other second. A passing street car, a motorcycle, with popping valves, tourists with a motion picture camera, everything that flashed momentarily into sight and then out again, was a new exhibit in an endless museum of wonderful objects to this youngster. There were doubts, perhaps, about the popping motorcycle, but not about the oak leaves. They, clearly, were magic; and this was a wonderful day.

The second youngster had reached the age when he was beset by an overmastering impulse to help weaklings. He was going forward at the moment. In this case it was a brick garden bonfire, in which raspberry canes and other trimmings crackled merrily in a blaze that spiralled up to a red, purple, lavender, and white specks floating downward on the air. Properly seen, there is probably nothing that calls for more undivided attention than a bonfire. The helper staggered after the keeper of the fire—a mighty giant almost as tall as the flames, and as happy as the flames. In his arms was a complicated bundle of twigs, which he carried three times around the fire before consenting to part with them. Only the thought that the fire might not clinch the matter. The twigs went on the fire, and the flames rose up to a higher, brighter, and brighter, which was more than the sea water did, it being filthy as usual. From an old salt: "I saw them blokes toss the garbage less'n a cable length from the breakerwater. It is to be hoped that the new garbage crusher being installed by the City Council will clean up a situation that has existed for years. . . . That sure is a swell new radio set in your place. I can hear the news broadcasts as well as if I were in your apartment." A neighbor told Aubrey: "That means you got as much pleasure out of it as I do." Aubrey replied: "How would you like to help me pay the installments?"—G.B.

The third youngster, in another part of the town, was a passion for mechanics. I have seen him before. Yesterday he was in sole charge of an automobile, and if there are eight heavens in the fancy of a boy, this is the eighth and greatest of them all: I took particular note of the flames, and compared to swear that I had no engine. I affirm in all confidence that its four wheels were without tires. The dashboard, moreover, was empty of all instruments. There was not even an ash tray there. And I am prepared to take my oath on it that that youngster got into that car, seated himself comfortably in the driver's seat, switched on the gasoline, set the spark in retard, manipulated the clutch, put the engine into successive gears and drove off with an air of magnificent unconcern, pushing out of the ash from a non-existent, clear into the absent ash tray. From his motions at the wheel, it must have been a hair-raising journey, because the steering column was spun repeatedly, and there appeared to be a great deal of trouble. Only once was the illusion of high adventure broken, and that was when someone spoke to the young man at the wheel. In a second, however, he was off again, oblivious to everything save that this was a red-letter day—a day to remember.

Average Production
Of Aircraft Twelve
Times Greater NowCanada Turning Out Planes at Average Monthly
Rate Largely in Excess of the Yearly
Output in Pre-War Days

TORONTO, Oct. 7 (CP).—Canada's average rate of production of aircraft now is twelve times greater than before the war began, James S. Duncan, deputy minister of air, said in an address prepared for delivery today to a joint meeting of service clubs under auspices of the Canadian Club of Toronto.

Duncan said production of the aircraft industry before hostilities was worth not more than $1,000,000 annually, and less than 1,000 men were employed.

"With the outbreak of war, it became necessary to throw Canada's aircraft production into high gear," he said.

"Many millions of dollars have been spent on capital facilities, including both plant and tooling. Orders totaling over $100,000,000 have been placed for aircraft, and many more are yet to come. Ten thousand men now find employment in the industry."

our aircraft factories throughout this Dominion and within twelve months this number will be doubled.

MONTHLY RATE HIGH
"In the three months ending September 30, our factories have turned out planes at an average monthly rate largely in excess of the yearly production of pre-war days, and within a year this figure will be multiplied by three."

Duncan said Canada's war effort in the air is proceeding at a pace "well beyond our most optimistic expectations."

"The deputy air minister said Canada today is producing as many planes each month, per head of population, as the United States."

"Our Department of Aircraft Production tells me their long-range programme contemplates, with the possible exception of aero engine manufacture, a completely integrated, self-contained industry, capable of producing anything from a primary trainer to the latest long-range heavy bomber."

"Our country lacks no defence nor water in its young men," he said. "If we lack anything, I think it is rather in an adult realization of the task confronting us."

The deputy minister mentioned Canada's fighting airman overseas, "who with its victorious air battles to their credit, are re-enacting the glorious exploits of their older brothers in the last war."

ANOTHER BIG JOB
But he said another big job was being done by the R.C.A.F. in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Navy—a job of which Canadians had heard all too little.

Since the war started, more than 3,000 ships with a total tonnage of more than 17,000,000 had left Canada for Great Britain. They were the "very lifeline of those beleaguered islands of Great Britain."

"I am proud to say that not one of these ships has been lost while under Canadian protection on this side of the Atlantic," Duncan said.

LEILANI IS IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Little Schooner Endangered
—Coast Guard Vessels
Racing to Her Aid

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 7 (AP).—A minor sea drama was being enacted off the Oregon coast tonight as three coast guard vessels raced to the aid of a small sailing schooner, in distress and endangered by an impending storm.

The cutter Onondaga was churning south from here and two small coast guard craft were dispatched from the Tillamook Bay station on plea of the thirty-two-foot auxiliary schooner Leilani, of Seattle. She was last sighted seventy-five miles south of the Columbia River bar.

Four Seattle men—Dan Norton, fireman; Trevor Lewis, Jim Donnelly and J. Hopkins—were reported aboard the boat, owned by Arthur La Belle, Seattle postal clerk.

The American-Hawaiian freighter, Nebraska, radioed that the Leilani had asked for a tow to Astoria to escape heavy weather.

The Leilani, which left Berkeley, Cal., for Seattle September 18, overhauled and sank September 27 while crossing the bar into Yaquina Bay at Newport, Ore. The coast guard rescued La Belle and three companions.

"Patriotic Duty"
Of Both Sides to Accept New Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7 (AP).—Federal conciliators today proposed a formula to settle the three-day strike of marine firemen, which operators of coastal freight vessels said would soon curtail movement of defence programme materials.

E. H. Fitzpatrick and O. F. Hoskins, representatives of the Federal conciliation service, called upon the disputants to accept the peace plan as their "patriotic duty" and urged its "full consideration."

Under it, the firemen would receive part of a demanded wage increase and return to work immediately, while all other issues would be submitted to arbitration.

DOCTORS CHECK
KIDNEYS FIRST

Because they know that healthy kidneys remove from the blood the waste matter—the excess acids and poisons, formed by the ever-changing human body as it decays and rebuilds itself. But if the kidneys fail, illness surely follows. Backache, Rheumatic Pains, Impure Blood, Lack of Energy, Few Frequent Urination, Sleeplessness, Headaches—all may result from faulty kidneys. As a health safeguard—as a wise precaution—regulate your kidneys frequently with Dodd's Kidney Pills—for over fifty years the favorite Kidney remedy—non-habit forming. 100

Flyer Interned After Forced Landing

ACTING Flight Lieutenant William Weir Campbell, D.F.C., of Victoria, previously reported interned, is interned in Athens, after a forced landing when his fuel supply became exhausted. He is in good health. Advice to this effect has been received by his mother, Mrs. P. J. Campbell, Moss Street.

A Canadian Press cable from Cairo yesterday confirmed the story previously published here of action which won the Distinguished Flying Cross for Lieutenant Campbell.

It was disclosed at Cairo that Campbell destroyed two Italian submarines shortly after Italy entered the war. The underwater craft were destroyed on successive days in diving-bombing attacks. On the second occasion he rescued four Italians from the sea as the submarine went down and kept them aboard his plane as he resumed patrol for the remainder of the day. His prowess won him the name "Dreadeye Dick" among his comrades.

SEEK RIGHT TO CATCH HERRING

Packing Concerns Want to
Can Fish for British Market

VANCOUVER, Oct. 7 (CP).—A group of seven British Columbia packing concerns have sent letters to Hon. George S. Pearson, British Columbia Commissioner of Fisheries asking for exclusive right to catch herring in the Gulf of Georgia for canning purposes, as opposed to fish meal and oil reduction and other purposes.

Letters have also been sent to Hon. J. E. Michaud, Federal Minister of Fisheries.

Although Mr. Pearson has replied that nothing can be done this season, as licences have already been given to the reduction plants operating in that area, the packers contended that special consideration should be given to the necessity of replacing the North Sea herring pack, seriously curtailed by the war.

The packers said that British buyers have offered to take 1,500,000 cases of canned herring from British Columbia and that the prospective business will be worth $3,500,000 to the industry here.

If the herring were converted only into meal and oil, the revenue would be only about $420,000, the packers contended.

On the Screen

Atlas—Bette Davis, in "All This and Heaven Too"

Capitol—Greer Garson in "Pride and Prejudice"

Oak Bay—Jean Arthur, in "Too Many Husbands"

Rio—Bette Davis, in "Dark Victory"

The Lady in Question, which opens today at the Dominion Theatre, co-starring Brian Aherne and Rita Hayworth, tells of a lovely young woman, accused of murder who wins the sympathies of a middle-aged juror, so that he persuades his fellows to acquit her.

Later, in kindly beneficence he installs her in his bicycle shop and introduces her into his home. The man's wife jealously assumes the worst; the man's son falls in love with the girl; the man's daughter discovers her own "boy friend" enamored of "The Lady in Question," and to add further complications, the shopkeeper is forced to hide the girl and her identity at various times. To put matters mildly, "The Lady in Question" is quite a problem.

CAPITOL Laurence Olivier plays THEATRE the part of Mr. Darcy in the filmization of Jane Austen's classic comedy, "Pride and Prejudice" which is now showing on the Capitol screen. Greer Garson is co-starred with the celebrated hero of "Rebecca" and "Wuthering Heights."

OAK BAY The "paper" which THEATRE Melvyn Douglas eats during one hilarious sequence of "Too Many Husbands" in which he is starred with Jean Arthur and Fred MacMurray at the Oak Bay Theatre, actually was made of very thin candy, to make his task easier, as well as tastier.

PLAZA Stars, story, action and THEATRE adventure—all it takes to make a grand picture great—the picture, of course, is "Convoy," which is now showing to crowded audiences at the Plaza Theatre. Making "Convoy" such an outstanding success is the brilliant acting of such stars as Clive Brook, John Clements, Edward Chapman and Judy Campbell.

RIO Vera Van, known to THEATRE radio fans as "the girl with the blue velvet voice," introduces a new song in Warner Bros. "Dark Victory" picture, "Dark Victory" which opened yesterday at the Rio Theatre. "Give Me Time for Tenderness" was composed by Edmund Goulding, who directed the picture.

ATLAS The momentous first THEATRE meeting of the screen's greatest dramatic stars, Bette Davis and Charles Boyer, takes place in "All This and Heaven Too," Warner Bros. screen adaptation of the world-applauded novel by Rachel Field. The film is now showing at the Atlas Theatre.

CADET The new travel trend to THEATRE seashore has its motion picture counterpart in "Road to Singapore," the sportive film which is now showing at the Cadet Theatre, with Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in the leading roles.

Powermatic Shift, Added Power and Stepped-Up Performance Gives Plymouth Mastery Over Hills and Traffic

There's a new thrill to motoring, typified by the 1941 Plymouth now on display in the showrooms of Beggs Motor Co., Ltd. There's added power that irons out hills, makes the luxury ride that makes the roughest road a cement highway, there's the Powermatic Drive that spells delightful new car operation, vastly reducing shifting effort, giving you complete mastery over traffic problems. In every way Plymouth sets a new standard that must be seen to be realized, and it is with this in mind that Beggs extends a genuine invitation to you to drop in, see the new models and compare them with anything you have seen. The interior alone is a revelation, a miracle in color, fabric and appointments, never before seen in a low-priced car. See the new two-tone upholstery in the special De Luxe, compare the fittings and accessories. When you get behind the wheel you will instantly realize what the stepped-up power means: increased horsepower, increased torque, new gear and transmission ratio. See them on display today. Let a Beggs man give you a demonstration. And remember, for all its luxury, Plymouth is still a low-priced car.

DRIVERS FREED
OF ALL BLAMEVerdict of Accidental Death
Returned in Case of Private Rowley

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury under Dr. E. C. Hart yesterday morning after investigating circumstances surrounding the death of Private Terence Butler Rowley, twenty-seven, a member of the 2nd Battalion, The Canadian Scottish Regiment.

A recommendation that drivers of army motorcycles receive more instruction before serving in these positions was added by the jury.

Rowley passed away on Friday in Equinham Military Hospital from injuries received on September 30 when a motorcycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile in charge of John A. McKenzie near Admirals Road on the Island Highway.

DESCRIBES CRASH

At the inquest, Mr. McKenzie testified that the motorcycle suddenly swerved into his car. Rowley had been riding in the sidecar. Private J. H. Wilson, Nanaimo, driver of the motorcycle, stated that he rounded a curve and it appeared that the car was directly in his path. He had swerved to the left and the right front of the left car collided with the automobile. Both drivers swore they had not been exceeding twenty miles per hour.

Members of the jury were: R. Shanks (foreman), J. O'Neil, D. O'Connell, A. Johnston, J. Pearson and H. Klesow.

Women's Organizations and Activities

Women Have Part to Play In War Effort

MONTREAL, Oct. 7 (C.P.)—Princess Alice told Montreal women today of the importance of their role in the war effort.

In Montreal on a two-day formal visit with the Governor-General, she described a few of the "grim facts we have got to face" in an address at a luncheon meeting of the Women's Canadian Club.

Princess Alice talked of the personal needs of Canada's fighting men to which women must see of welfare and educational work which has to be carried out despite the war, and of the plight of French refugees in England.

When she started to speak, Princess Alice said that if she had "shortcomings" as a public speaker, it was because she had been in the days when children were meant to be seen and not heard.

FOR FIGHTING MEN
Princess Alice said the first duty of women during wartime is "providing our fighting men with all the personal comforts we can."

"The second kind of work, and no less important, is that of the needy and the aged at home and for the education of our children."

She said a "cause crying out for help" was that of French refugees in England. "Our own men must come first, but the plight of the French refugees is a tragic one. The problem of clothing and feeding is great."

"French soldiers, sailors and airmen are fighting side by side with our men. The men have no one to care for their comfort. They are our Allies."

"If ever there was a time when we should be their Allies, it is now," Princess Alice declared.

Clubs-Societies

Scorpius Club

At its meeting last night the president, Miss Marjorie Holmes, in the chair, the Scorpius Club voted $50 to the Lord Mayor's fund for the relief of air-raid victims in London. Clarke suggested that the club should send a letter to the military ward of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Miss Cresson and Mrs. F. Robertson were appointed to interview the lady superintendent, Miss L. Mitchell, on this matter. A photograph of the ambulance presented by the Canadian Scorpius Club to England a few months ago was shown to the members, this having been sent here recently by the British Scorpius Club. It was decided to close the wool fund for the time being, but in the meantime Mrs. Clarke reported that the following knitted articles had been turned out for war services: Ten grey scarves, forty-eight pairs of rifle mitts, one khaki sweater, eighteen navy scarves, five pairs of grey mitts and six sleeveless sweaters. The club will assist the Venture Club with its rummage sale on November 2. Copies of the new American Federation constitution were distributed to members. ONLY 11,000 PEOPLE

Every simple incident, because of the vast quietness of that Northern wilderness, assumed importance, and one found oneself deeply interested in everyone—the Mounted Police, trappers, missionaries, missionaries of any denomination, nurses, almoners, and the natives. An idea of the scattered nature of the population was given in Mr. McLeod's statement that in the whole area north of Lac Labiche there were only 11,000 people, 2,000 of whom were whites, 2,000 Eskimos, and the remainder Indians and half-breeds. Something was told, too, about the changing moods of the wilderness, for, despite the monotonous horizon, the people, the dogs, the wild life, the smoke of every little campfire, the creaking of other river craft all helped to color the day. The Northland, in fact, had little meaning apart from its dwellers.

Mrs. Cooper, an Australian visitor, was also introduced. NEW BABY BOOK IT'S FREE

Why special homogenization has enabled babies of six weeks to eat vegetables and fruits under medical supervision is explained in a recently published illustrated booklet. Many doctors recommend that babies be given a regular homogenized vegetable and fruit supplement to their diets as protection against nutritional anemia. The easier, faster digestion by tiny babies of homogenized vegetables and fruits, and the nutritional value of these foods make them desirable additions. Regarding the preparation of specially homogenized solid foods, the booklet states: "Vegetables and fruits are first steamed, and then homogenized." This new process does two things impossible by stirring alone—first, it breaks up tough fibres which may cause baby intestinal disturbances, into smooth, minute non-irritating particles; secondly, it breaks up food cells, releasing nutrients contained inside for faster, easier digestion. Libby's of Chatham, Ontario, are the exclusive producers of Homogenized Vegetables and Fruits. Libby's offer to progressive mothers a free copy of their 24-page, illustrated booklet entitled "Your Baby's First Vegetables and Fruits." Just send your name and address to Libby's, Chatham, Ontario. If your grocery cannot supply you, send his name to Libby's. Consult your doctor about feeding your baby Libby's Homogenized Vegetables and Fruits.

Film Is Feature At Gyro Meeting Here Yesterday

Guest at the weekly Gyro luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel yesterday, A. Gordon Nairn, field representative of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada, showed a movie film, "Yours Truly, Ed. Graham," to the assembled Gyros.

The meeting was presided over by Gyro President Arthur Minnis.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 a.m., from 1 to 3 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a.m., from 5 to 7 p.m. and from 9 to 11 p.m.

Unless there is some exceptional good reason for your figuring what you intend doing tomorrow, concentrate on your activities for today and you may accomplish far more by doing so. Many accidents are likely to happen today due to a disregard for the ordinary rules of safety, so do what you can to get people to observe them. Wool gathering will be largely responsible for the mislaying and loss of personal belongings today, so do not put things down in an absent-minded fashion. A thoughtlessly said "no" or "yes" can involve you in a lot of trouble today, so before saying either give the question asked careful consideration.

A vast amount of injustice will be done if snap judgment is taken in any matter that might be clarified by an explanation, so avoid forming hasty conclusions. Courtesy, today, is the keystone supporting friendly relationships in both homes and offices and any lack of it is liable to result in the destruction of the harmonious conditions that should prevail between married and engaged couples, as well as sweethearts.

If a woman, and October 8 is your birthday, remember if you give some people an inch they will take an ell, for the chances are a good many individuals will judge that you are good natured enough to stand being imposed upon. You must not hesitate to assert your authority whenever there is any occasion that warrants it. Social welfare, educational, political, literary, musical, artistic, or a specialized line of commercial work, may afford you the opportunity of making your name widely known and an income that will more than suffice for your needs. There are many indications that you will make a very congenial and happy marriage.

The child born on October 8 must develop self-possession, for shyness or an undue amount of modesty can easily become habitual if they are not overcome during this youngster's formative years. Social graces and activities often help Libra's children to attain the goal of their ambitious hopes.

If a man and October 8 is your birthday, do not make the mistake of trying to regulate the lives of other people. Remember that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" and it will pay you to mix freely with people. You will find the study of human nature not only interesting but profitable, especially if you are actively engaged in engineering, politics, medicine, law, the theatre, work, writing, selling, manufacturing, or some educational pursuit.

SHE BOUGHT TEN EVENING GOWNS A YEAR

—but her
dressmaker dreaded each fitting

MISS W. WAS A WARM-ROOM OFFENDER

MISS W. was one of the best-dressed women in town. People who didn't know her wondered why romance always passed her by. Her dressmaker knew the reason.

For all of us must perspire to live. Warm, study rooms increase perspiration. Left on the body, sweat deposits go straight to decomposition. Then YOU have "B.O."

Check "B.O." before it starts by using Lifebuoy regularly. Lifebuoy contains an exclusive deodorizing ingredient not found in any other leading toilet soap. Used in your daily bath Lifebuoy stops "B.O." its rich purifying lather washes stale perspiration deposits away—protects you from offending others.

SCIENTIFIC FACTS ABOUT "B.O."

The adult skin has 2 to 3 million sweat glands which act as a cooling system, giving off from 1 to 3 pints of perspiration daily—when we are sitting still. If perspiration stopped, we would die from hyperthermia (heat stroke).

Because much of the water in perspiration evaporates, we do not see or feel it—especially during the changeable weather. Hence, room-lack of fresh air and heavy clothes quickly decompose this sweat deposits—turn it into—cause offensive "B.O." (Body Odor).

SCHOOL LAD TOPS FIELD

Tommy Turner Wins Honors At Port Alberni Fishing Derby

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 7.—The story book tale of how the boy with the home-made fishing rod goes out and catches the big fish while ardent men with expensive tackle wonder how it is done came true here on Sunday in the annual fishing derby when Tommy Turner, school boy with a home-made fishing rod, landed the largest salmon, weighing forty-one pounds. Besides winning the first prize, he is crowned with the club name of "tye man for the season." Tommy Turner is sixteen years of age and is a student at the local high school. While being an ardent fisherman, he has often envied the expensive split bamboo and greenheart fishing rods and tackle of the older fishermen. He has looked forward to the day when he also would be able to own such fishing tackle and perhaps get a big fish.

In order to be able to qualify for the Tye Derby on Sunday, the men who had caught the forty largest fish during the qualifying round would be accepted, and Tommy, to his delight, found that he ranked thirty-ninth with a twenty-nine-pound Tye salmon. At 3:30 Sunday morning, when the derby opened, he was the first one at the dock and in his rowboat had soon disappeared into the early morning mist. At 6:30, when a majority of fishermen were just arriving, he proudly rowed back to the dock and to the amazement of the bystanders, produced this large salmon, and the official weigher declared that its weight was forty-one pounds. Until 3:30 o'clock when the derby closed, this excited boy never left the floats, and as a fisherman after fisherman came in with salmon he became more excited as he still held the leadership. When the gun went off, calling all entrants in and their fish weighed, he was declared the winner. A Flanagan was second with a thirty-four-pound fish; W. Yates, third, with a fish weighing thirty-three and one-half pounds; G. G. McDermott, fourth, with one weighing thirty-one pounds; L. Taylor, fifth, and S. Tilford, sixth, with their weighing thirty and twenty-nine pounds, respectively.

Detroit Infielders Trying Hard to Reach Ball

Though the Reds didn't profit particularly by the play in the second game shown above, it was not the fault of Birdie Tebbetts, the Detroit backstop. In an effort to catch Eddie Joost's rapping at second base, he threw wildly to that base, the ball eluding both Shortstop Bartell (right), and Charlie Gehring, who are seen here depicting trying desperately to head off the errant sphere. Joost, who got back to second safely, went to third on the pop. The error, however, was innocuous, as Walters fled out and McCormick popped, after the bases were filled on a walk to Werber. The National League titleholders played like real champions.

Play-by-Play Description

Here's a play by play description of the sixth game of the World Series, between the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds, played yesterday at Crosley Field, home of the National League champions.

FIRST INNING
Tigers—Bartell took one strike and then lifted a high fly to ripple. With the count one strike and two balls, McCormick lifted a pop foul which Werber took in front of the boxes near third base. Ripple made a running catch of Gehring's fly in the left field corner.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Reds—Werber waited out a three and two count, and then belted a liner against the fence in left field 328 feet from the home plate, and made second before Greenberg could recover the ball. M. McCormick laid down a sacrifice bunt on the first pitch and was thrown out. With the count one strike and two balls, McCormick lifted a pop foul which Werber took in front of the boxes near third base. Ripple made a running catch of Gehring's fly in the left field corner.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING
Tigers—Greenberg struck out on four pitches, the last being Walters' favorite sinker. York took one strike, and then sent a long fly to Goodman in right field. Campbell got the count to three and two and then walked on an inside pitch. Higgins singled into short left, moving Campbell to second. Tebbetts took two strikes, and then bounced to Walters and was thrown out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Reds—Myers looked at three straight balls and then struck out. Walters, with two strikes against him, bounced to Gorsica and was thrown out. With the count one strike and two balls, Werber punched a single through short. M. McCormick popped the ball in front of the plate and was thrown out by Tebbetts.

THIRD INNING
Tigers—Gorsica swung at two pitches, and then flied to M. McCormick in deep center. Bartell looked at three balls and two called strikes, and then doubled down the left-field foul line. With two strikes against him, McCormick lined to Goodman in deep right. Bartell going to third. Rowe was replaced by Gorsica. Wilson took one strike, popped a foul while trying to bunt, and then struck out on the third pitch. Higgins raced to his left to make an almost miraculous pickup of Joost's grounder and throw to Gehring to force Ripple at second.

Two runs, four hits, no errors, two left.

FOURTH INNING
Tigers—Greenberg looked at two balls and a strike, and then raised a high foul to Wilson a few feet from the batter's box. York slammed a three-and-one pitch into short left for a single. With the count one and one, Campbell shot a hot grounder at Joost, who threw to Myers to start a double play. Joost to Myers to F. McCormick.

Reds—Joost knocked a grounder to Bartell in deep short. On was thrown out on a close play. With the count two and two, Myers bounced the ball back at Gorsica, who deflected it to Bartell, who threw the runner out at first. (Assist for pitcher). Walters was called out on strikes.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING
Tigers—Eddie Joost went to his right and picked up Higgins' fast roller in time to make the throw to first. Tebbetts knocked the first pitch back at Myers and was thrown out easily. Gorsica was given a round of applause as he came to bat. He was called out on strikes.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Reds—Werber worked the count to three and two, and then grounded out. Bartell to York. With the count two strikes and one ball, M. McCormick knocked a high fly into left field which Greenberg caught on the slope that rises to the fence. Goodman dropped a single into short left field.

On the first pitch, F. McCormick sent an easy grounder to Higgins, who threw to Gehring, forcing Goodman at second.

Tigers—Bartell hit the first pitch for a ground single into left field. Werber made a spectacular stop of McCormick's hot grounder and threw to Joost, forcing Bartell at second.

But Joost's throw to first was late to complete a double play. With the count one strike and two balls, Gehring knocked a sharp grounder to F. McCormick, who poked and threw to Myers and then got back to the bag to take the shortstop's throw for a double play.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Reds—Ripple fouled off the first pitch and then poked a single past second. When York came rushing in to protect against a bunt, Wilson boosted a single just over his head and Ripple went all the way to third before Campbell could come in and get the ball to make a play. Joost waited on five pitches to fill the bases. Freddy Hutchinson, a right-hander, started warming up in Detroit's bullpen. On the first pitch, Myers bounced high to Gorsica, who tossed the ball to Tebbetts to force Ripple at the plate, leaving the bases loaded. After working the count to three and two, Walters topped the ball toward third base and Wilson beat Higgins' throw to Tebbetts to score, and the bases were left loaded. The play was scored as a fielder's choice with no assist and no error.

One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

SEVENTH INNING
Tigers—Greenberg tapped to the box and was thrown out by Walters. York singled into left field. Joost ran over almost behind first base to spear Campbell's grounder and threw him out on a close play. York moving to second. Higgins worked the count to one strike and two balls, and then grounded out. Myers to F. McCormick.

Reds—M. McCormick drove a vicious single right between Gorsica's legs and out into center field. Goodman tried twice and the second time laid down a successful sacrifice. Gorsica to York. F. McCormick sent a hot grounder to Bartell, who waved M. McCormick back to second and then threw to first for the out. Ripple was intentionally walked. Wilson walked on four straight balls, filling the bases. Joost sent an easy grounder to Gehring and was thrown out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, three left.

EIGHTH INNING
Tigers—Werber came in fast almost to the pitcher's box to take Tebbetts' grounder and throw him out. Earl Averill batted for Gorsica. Averill sent a grounder to F. McCormick back of first and the first baseman tried to beat the runner to the bag, ending in what appeared to be a dead heat and then colliding with Umpire Ballanfant outside the base line and dropping the ball as both men fell to the ground. The umpire ruled Averill safe and there was a long argument, followed by a conference between Ballanfant and Omsby which ended with the runner still on the base. F. McCormick was charged with an error. Sullivan batted for Bartell. Sullivan flied to M. McCormick. Averill holding first. With the count one strike and two balls, McCormick raised a high fly to M. McCormick in short centre.

No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

Reds—Freddy Hutchinson went in to pitch and Frank Croucher went to shortstop for the Tigers. Myers struck out. Walters hit the first pitch for a beautiful arching home run over the left field wall, 330 feet from home plate. Werber hit a high fly to Campbell in right field. M. McCormick fouled off three balls and worked the count to three and two before walking. With the count one and one, Goodman lifted a high fly to Greenberg in left field.

One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

LAST PERIOD RALLY GIVES WESTERNERS FIVE-GOAL TRIUMPH

Vancouver Lacrosse Lads Drive in Half-Dozen Goals in Final Session While Holding St. Catharines Scoreless to Gain 4-0 Decision—Next Game Carded Wednesday

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS, TORONTO, Oct. 7 (CP)—Vancouver Burrard Blue Bombers took a one-game lead in their quest for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship with a 14-0 victory over St. Catharines Athletics here tonight. Second game of the best-of-five series for the Mann Cup will be held here Wednesday.

Third game for the trophy, won last year by New Westminster Athletics, will be played Friday.

Never ahead until the divine moments of the third quarter, the Bombers smashed through for six goals in the final frame, while holding the vaunted Athletics scoreless. It was the first time this season that the Saints had been held to no score in any quarter of a game.

Gameness of the Bombers in their climb to victory on a strange floor earned them the ovation of a crowd of 5,125—large for a lacrosse match here.

The Athletics, who lost out to Adanacs in the Dominion finals on the Pacific Coast last season, started with a rush and popped in the first goal just twenty-nine seconds after the game started. That score seemed to portend a St. Catharines victory because the Bombers appeared out of place and uncertain on the concrete floor.

Their combination began to click, however, and although behind 4-2 at the end of the quarter, they were improving all the time. Behind 6-5 at half-time, Bombers went all out, swept the Athletics off their feet with persistent checking and speed, and were much the fresher at the finish.

High scorer of the game was Harry (Buck) Berry, a red-headed chunk of dynamite, who never stopped trying. A defenceman, he was a brilliant figure amid the talent that surrounded him on the Burrard roster.

Although fights threatened at odd moments in the heavy going, none broke out and only minor penalties were issued.

Burrards, who defeated New Westminster for the right to come East, advanced to the finals, with a two-game series victory over Cornwall Indians in Montreal last week.

On behalf of the club, Mr. O. M. Prentice presented the retiring president with a gold silver ring.

THE PROGRAMME
The programme which was held after the business meeting was much enjoyed. Mr. Joe Dobbin delighted the audience with his amusing Scottish selections, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Cecil Horton. Two vocal solos were given by Miss Sheila Aikenhead, with Miss Jessie Smith as accompanist; two pair dances by Misses Burns and Perkins, pupils of Miss Violet Powles, with Miss Elsie Fryatt at the piano; accompanied at the piano by Miss Jessie Smith, and community singing and the National Anthem concluded the evening.

On behalf of the club, Mr. O. M. Prentice presented the retiring president with a gold silver ring.

PLANS NOT DEFINITE
While the nine infantry battalions for a fifth division have been mobilized, no immediate consideration is being given to the creation of a fifth division. Mr. Ralston said. The department, he added, always has in mind the possible necessity of mobilizing additional military formations to meet changing conditions.

An armored division is in contemplation, he said, confirming a previous intimation that when the Armored Brigade now being formed under Col. F. F. Worthington is completed order reorganization would be given to expand it into a division.

The minister said that Lord Strathcona's Horse of Winnipeg, a noted cavalry regiment which was about to lose its identity in the Canadian Cavalry Regiment, would be a motorcycle regiment in the Armored Brigade and would retain its name.

Bucky Walters in Great Victory to Tie Up the Series

Pitches and Bats Cincinnati Reds to 4-0 Decision Over Detroit to Force Seventh Game, Which Will Be Played Today at Crosley Field — Hits Homer Off Freddy Hutchinson

Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI, Oct. 7 (AP).—Bucky Walters, the wonder boy of National League pitchers for two years, pitched and batted Cincinnati Reds to a 4-0 conquest over Detroit Tigers today and forced the 1940 world series to its limit of seven games.

Just as he hurled three-hit ball to tame the Tigers in the second game of the series and even the standing last Thursday, Bucky today pitched a nearly flawless five-hit game to strangle them into a shutout.

But almost more than his pitching, the 30-year-old homeliner first baseman, who had run the hero hit over the left field wall in the eighth inning.

This blow, the second home run Walters hit this year, only served to heap humiliation on the Tigers. It came off young Fred Hutchinson long after the Reds had sewed up the victory by shelling Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe off the mound in the fifth inning.

TO SHOWERS EARLY
The Tigers batted heavily on Rowe repudiating his performance against Walters in their previous game, when he was knocked out by a five-run uprising in the fourth inning. Instead the same stuff that the Reds liked before they liked earlier today.

Bill Werber started the steamup with a terrific liner against the fence in the first inning, good for a double. Mike McCormick sacrificed him to third and then Ted Goodman, Frank McCormick and Jim Rippe hit consecutive singles to send Rowe to the showers.

Werber scored on a hit by Goodman who raved from second on Rippe's sharp shot to center. John Gorsica, who relieved Rowe in his other flank, came up with another creditable fireman's performance, stopping this rally and allowing only one run and five hits in the six and two-thirds innings he pitched.

But, as on the other occasion, Gorsica's work was wasted, because Walters kept whipping his fast downer to the plate where the Tigers could do nothing with it. Bucky also benefited from the sort of tight defense that brought the Reds' pennant, but which has shown only in spasms this series.

As the result of the Reds' triumph, the 1940 World Series will be the first to go seven games since St. Louis Cardinals beat the same Tigers in 1934 for the last world championship won by a National League club.

DERRINGER READY
Cincinnati is in a good strategic position to repeat this victory by having big Paul Derringer ready for the final game here tomorrow with two days' rest since whipping the Bengals in Detroit last Sunday.

The Tigers appear certain to come back with Buck Newsom on one day's rest and hope that he can continue the mastery that subdued the Reds last Wednesday and again Sunday.

The Reds, although making two errors behind Walters today, looked the best they have during the series in batting out a ten-hit barrage against three Detroit pitchers.

Walters struck out only two men, but he walked only two and with the help of his teammates kept out of serious jams. In the fourth, sixth and ninth innings Frank McCormick, Eddie Joost and Billy Myers helped out with double plays.

Everyone of the Reds, except Joost and Myers, shared in the hitting spree and Werber's two safeties booted his total for the series to ten, the most for any player on either club.

PALACE MADE UNINHABITABLE

German raids was "to spread the spirit of fear among the people," but the people are defeating them every day by a counter-spirit of unity, resolution and fortitude.

The blasts collapsed the central wall of the palace and caused havoc inside. No one was reported injured. The bombs fell at about the same time Westminster Abbey and the House of Lords were damaged.

PAINTINGS SAFE
They landed in the rear of the building, thus saving from destruction several valuable paintings of former archbishops and other irreplaceable historical objects. The several paintings were scratched badly, however, when the dust of the explosion was removed.

Included are portraits by Holbein, Van Dyck, Howard and Reynolds. Lambeth Palace, London residence of Archbishops of Canterbury for seven centuries, stands opposite the Houses of Parliament on the south side of the Thames.

The palace was begun in 1262 by Archbishop Boniface, but few of his successors failed to add to it or alter it in some way.

Ancient Westminster Abbey, where Britain has crowned her Kings and Queens and buried many of her illustrious dead, has been severely damaged by a large German bomb.

The raid occurred recently, but the authorities at first barred mention of its effect.

CHURCH DAMAGED
The missile, which blasted a hole twenty feet in diameter in the old Palace Yard, behind the statue of Richard the Lion-Hearted near the Peers' entrance of the House of Lords, also damaged the roof of fashionable St. Margaret's Church, adjacent to the abbey, and blew in the windows of the House of Lords.

There is hardly a window now intact in the House of Lords. Concussion from the bomb caused considerable damage to historic Henry VII's chapel, sixteenth century shrine at the east end of the abbey, where many Kings and Queens lie buried and knights of the Order of the Bath are installed with ancient pomp.

There was no direct hit on the abbey. The part used for crypts for rulers was not damaged, but huge chunks of the outside masonry were blasted away.

The famous Poets' Corner of the abbey is some distance from the chapel, being located in the corner of the south transept of the abbey. Splinters were sent flying south-east from the bomb crater clear up Victoria Tower, 336 feet high and the tallest of the three towers of the Houses of Parliament.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE IN GERMAN CAPITAL

AIRBORNE BOMBED
Other British bombers went over Holland and bombed the airbase at Diepholz, thirty miles southwest of Bremen.

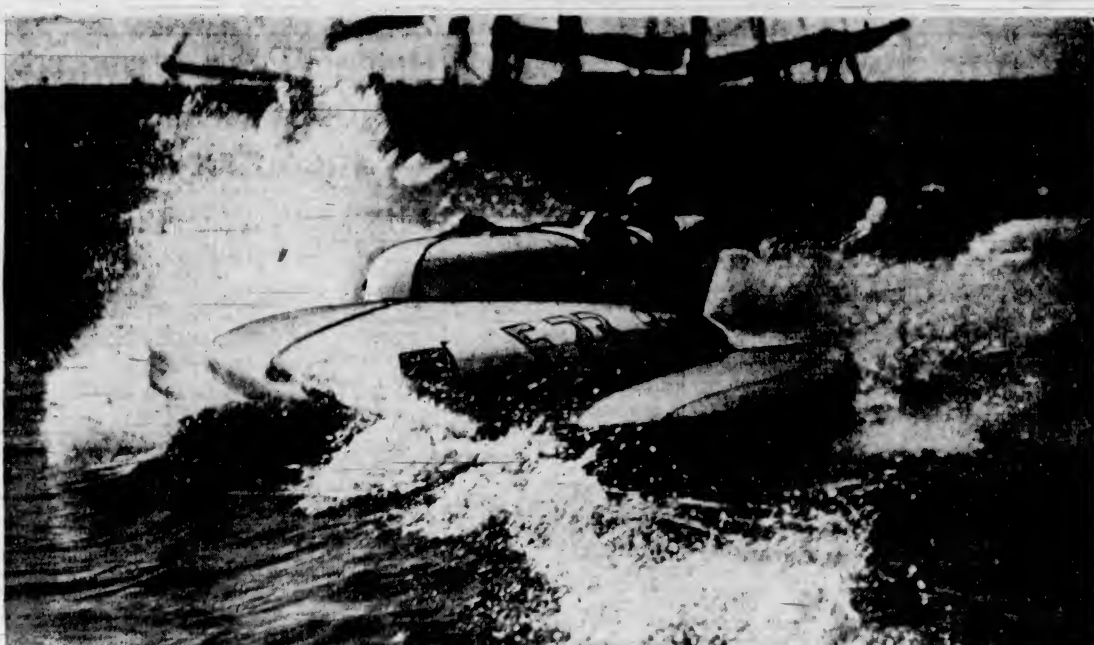

Diepholz already has felt the jar of British bombs in six previous attacks according to a list of more than 200 "military targets" raided by the Royal Air Force up to September 30 in Germany and German-occupied territory.

The list was published by the Ministry of Information, amplifying the announcement of the British "master plan" aimed at "weak spots" in the German war effort. Berlin—the Reich's heart—has been raided fifteen times. In all, 882 attacks on German objectives were reported.

SHIPPING IS SMASHED
The R.A.F. ducked into Holland's Zuider Zee for stabs at barge and shipping concentrations at Harlingen, Stavoren, Enkhuisen and the former Netherlands naval base at Den Helder and again bombed the ports of Ostend, Calais and Boulogne, the Air Ministry said. An airbase in Western Germany, at Diepholz, and barges at Dordrecht in Holland also were attacked.

One airplane said he struck a "clouds of sparks" when he dived in

NAZI TROOPS TO KEEP WATCH

Reports in Bucharest that Germany planned to help build a large naval and air base near Mamaia on the Black Sea were called "absolute nonsense."

(A broad highway east and west across Rumania and help in enlarging the submarine factory and base at Galata also were rumored in Bucharest as part of Germany's plans. British reports quoting Rumanian sources that Italian troops also had entered the country were not confirmed in Italy.)

NOT SATISFACTORY
LONDON, Oct. 7 (CP).—Well-informed circles said today the Rumanian Government's explanation of mistreatment of British subjects is "not satisfactory" and therefore "representations are being maintained."

Among those arrested for alleged oil field sabotage is a Canadian, Captain John E. Treacy, formerly of Calgary and Chatham, Ont. Captain Treacy's wife was released last week and is recovering from the effects of rough handling by the Rumanian secret police.

While the British Government still waits full confirmation of reports of mistreatment, such information as has been received thus far "looks reliable," a spokesman said. "It has been partially admitted by

Final Plans For Bridge Party Made

Final plans for the bridge party to be held in Spencer's tea room on Thursday afternoon by the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., were completed at the monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon at headquarters. Play will commence at 2:30 p.m. and reservations should be made by telephoning Mrs. Frank Baylis at G-3874. The bridge prizes will be drawn for, and tea guests will be welcomed at 3:45 p.m.

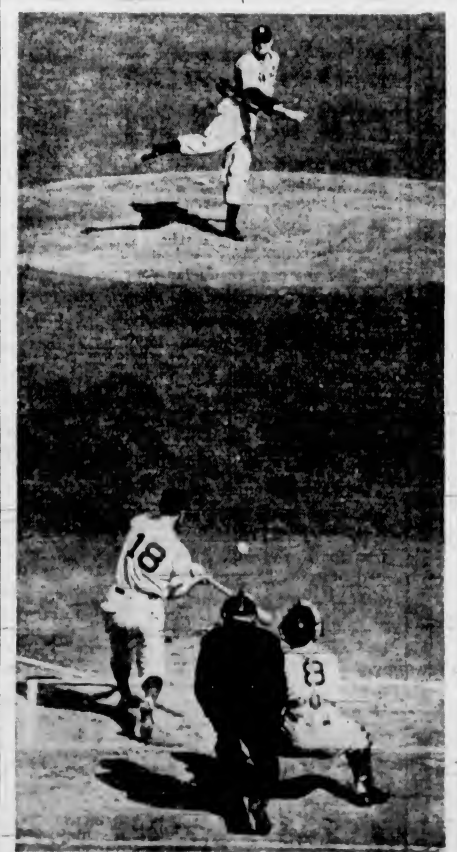

Sixteen pairs of socks, eight sweaters and five pairs of mitts, to the value of $30.50, have been turned in by members. The chapter has donated and the members will make one dozen pyjamas and one dozen extra socks for the patients in the T.B. Pavilion of the Jubilee Hospital. The sum of $10 was voted to the bomber fund.

Arrangements for a bazaar to be held before Christmas were made, and a meeting in connection with the bazaar will be held at the home of Mrs. James Baker, 714 Discovery Street, on Thursday, October 24, at 2:30 p.m.

Members having husbands, sons or daughters serving in the active services are asked to send the names into the secretary, Mrs. Herbert Lethaby. One new member, Mrs. Charles Senior, was welcomed.

I.O.D.E. Activities
Ganges Chapter
The monthly meeting of the Ganges Chapter was held Friday afternoon at Ganges Inn, the first vice-regent, Mrs. C. E. Baker, in the chair. The treasurer gave a report of the recent I.O.D.E. bridge party held at Harbor House, by which the sum of $36.75 had been raised for the chapter's war work fund. There was discussion regarding the necessary repairs to the I.O.D.E. room in the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital and towards this, the sum of $25 was voted. Following a decision to send small Christmas gifts to local men on active service overseas, $20 was voted from the chapter's funds, several individual donations also being sent in for the same purpose. Mrs. C. Springford was elected convener of a committee of three in charge of the matter. The educational secretary reported the need of more books for the library of the Salt Spring Island Consolidated School, and the chapter voted $10 towards new books and promised to place a box in Mrs. Turner's gift shop to receive any used books members might be willing to donate. It was also decided to put boxes in Mount's Store and the Trading Company for the purpose of receiving books for the I.O.D.E. library service for soldiers on guard duty in Canada. It was announced by the executive that Mrs. R. O. Gallagher had accepted the position of Brown Owl in place of Mrs. D. K. Crofton, who recently resigned, and Miss Betty Scowles that of lieutenant of the Guides, following the resigna-

PLAINS TO HIT-AND-RUN Charge in Court

Wilfred John Jennings pleaded guilty in the Esquimalt police court yesterday afternoon to charges of failing to return to the scene of an accident and driving in a manner dangerous to the public. He was remanded by Magistrate Henry C. Hall until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock for sentence.

The charges arose out of an accident on Admirals Road shortly after midnight Sunday, when Jennings struck W. E. Beattie and W. Russell, members of the Royal Canadian Navy, with his car. Neither is believed to be seriously injured.

Police reported Jennings was forced to stop by a motorist who pursued him as he continued north on Admirals Road after knocking the sailors down.

Circumstances of the case will be presented to the magistrate before sentence is passed tomorrow. A report from the Jubilee Hospital last night stated the men were resting comfortably.

FLAG UNFURLED AT PORT ALBERNI

Colorful Ceremony Held on the Grounds of West Coast General Hospital

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 7.—An important event in the history of the West Coast General Hospital took place yesterday afternoon at a colorful ceremony of "Unfurling the Flag." In the presence of more than 300 spectators the flag was hauled to the top of the pole, where it was broken loose while the assembly sang "God Save the King."

At 2:30 o'clock the various patriotic organizations marched up to the hospital grounds and were lined up around the base of the flagpole. The Boy Scouts in command of Scoutmaster Walker, and the Girl Guides in command of Mrs. T. Parkinson, were on one side, while the Women's Service Club, in their smart uniforms, in command of Mrs. M. Hamilton, and the Voluntary Training Corps in command of G. M. Campbell were on the other side.

The nurses in their white uniforms and the hospital board were present, as also were many returned men. The flag was presented by the Girl Guides to Rev. G. Stevenson, who blessed it and handed it over to a boy scout, and the flag was hauled to the top of the pole. Mr. Stevenson gave a short address on the emblem of the flag, while Mayor W. C. Hamilton also spoke.

Harry Berryman, president of the board of directors, thanked all those who had taken part in the service, and expressed his gratitude to the logging firm of Biedel, Sigmund & Welch for having secured a flagpole and presented it to the hospital, and to the National Utilities for having erected the same and to Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir for the personal gift of the flag.

Industrials Down At Day's Close On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP).—Industrial stocks turned downward at the close of today's market after holding to exceptionally slim territory during the greater part of the proceedings.

Trends were indefinite from the start and dealing slack. Offerings began to come out in the final hour, however, and closing losses of fractions to a point or so predominated. At that, the rails were fairly resistant, as were a number of preferreds and specialties.

The Associated Press average of 48 stocks was off 2-1/2 of a point at 448. Transfers totaled 302,280 shares, against 466,080 last Friday, lowest turnover for a full session since September 20.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem gave ground notwithstanding a substantial uptick in this week's estimated operations for the industry.

General Motors and Chrysler were off fractionally in the face of forecasts of expanding sales and factory activities. Santa Fe was up a shade.

On the upside were Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Dupont, General Electric, Westinghouse, Texas Corp., Anacosta, American Smelting and Western Union.

Senior issues of Pere Marquette and General Steel Castings retained. John-Manville, J. C. Penney, U.S. minor gains. Up also were Loft, Gypsum and Union Carbide.

Japanese bonds cracked in today's market, but there were further gains in the German group.

Mounting tension in the Japanese Government's relations with some other powers, including the United States, was blamed by brokers for the performance of Japan's loans.

The 6 1/2-2s closed down 2 3/8 points at 68 1/8, and the 5 1/2-2s lost 2 1/2 at 52 1/2.

Tacking on major fractions to a point or more were Berlin 5 1/2-2s, Frankfurt 5 1/2-2s and the Government 7s.

DISCUSS NEEDS OF SERVICEMEN

Ministerial Association To Develop Direct Church Effort Plan

Ways and means by which the churches of Victoria may give greater help and comfort to men of the forces stationed in this area are to be considered by the executive of the Victoria Ministerial Association, it was resolved at a meeting of the association, yesterday morning, presided over by Rev. G. A. Reynolds.

The subject was discussed at considerable length, speakers remarking that it was realized that many of the uniformed men here were far from home and friends, and had few places to go on leave, especially at week-ends. While many private homes were open to servicemen, and several organizations, notably the YMCA and the Three Services Canteen of the Salvation Army, were doing valuable work, it was recognized that better organization in the form of direct church effort was needed.

The matter was referred to the executive, for it to develop a programme, and a special meeting of the association will be called when the executive is ready to report.

Rev. Hugh A. McLeod gave an interesting address on his recent trip down the Mackenzie River.

SPITFIRE FUNDS

Sir—Many and novel methods are being used to raise money for Spitfire funds. Money in large and small amounts are being sent in from many parts of the Empire. I think this is a very fine idea and should have the support of every city in the British Empire. We should start a fund in Victoria and keep it going. The navy has long been "Our sure shield," but today that is not enough. Only a powerful air force can keep our enemies from invading our shores. We must concentrate all our energy on this force till we are masters in the air. This is the one vital need of the hour, and will be till it is accomplished.

Air power makes a strong navy.

According to Culbertson

The ranking schedule that will be followed in this year's self rating examination, which will start next Friday, is the same as that used in the last exam.

Each contestant starts with 1,000 points. Every time he answers a question incorrectly he will be told exactly how many points to deduct from his running net total. Don't get discouraged if you start out losing points; there will be some questions, "tougher" than the others, which will carry, not demerits, but credits, to be added to your net total if you have answered correctly.

Now for the table that will be used in determining the final grades.

Final Standing of Grade

950 points and over	Master
875-949 points	Expert
800-874 points	Advanced
700-799 points	Good average
600-699 points	Weak average
500-599 points	Poor
Below 500 points	Dub

The bidding:

 Pass 4 spades 5 clubs Pass

This remarkable bidding developed from South's ridiculous one club opening. South was the sort of player who, having been told that "experts open many hands with one club, even when holding a five card suit," even when the misinformation in one bid, and never recovers from the acute indignation that follows. West, of course, "trapped" the club hand in tomorrow's column.

How I Became Acquainted with PARADOL

"Ever since I was married (13 years) I have suffered terribly with grinding pains in the abdomen during the periods. Last summer we went 40 miles to a show with a party of friends. Soon that pain started and I was terribly distressed with myself. There was no enjoying the show but I had my husband call at a drug store for a box of Paradol. I took one tablet right there and what a surprise to find the pain gone right away. I was happy and singing on the way home."

It is a remarkable medicine for instead of periods lasting 9 or 10 days as formerly they are over in the usual time and without any pain or discomfort. "Mrs. M. B. It is a fine habit to always carry Paradol in your handbag."

Dr. Chase's Paradol

Have Riskiest Job of All

A British army "suicide squad" of the bomb disposal unit of the Royal Engineers are pictured above gingerly lifting a heavy German time bomb from the crater it caused when it fell into a west London street recently.

still stronger, also the army. The navy cannot fight on land, the army cannot fight on the sea. The air force can fight over both. Enemy planes now fly so high nothing but our own planes can touch them. Our own boys must not be outnumbered while we do nothing about it.

We are told Germany can produce a new plane every forty minutes. We must produce one every twenty. If you think that over, you will get some idea of the task ahead of us. Our air force must be strong enough to shoot down three planes every hour. The stronger this force the less need for funds for distress purposes. Spitfire is a household word in England today. We must make it so in all parts of the Empire. It is the one thing that matters, the only thing that matters till we are masters in the air. Then, and not till then, shall we be masters of Germany.

Any and every way to raise money for this fund is a good way. One way I think would be a good one, would be to sell stamps to stick on letters. They could be printed in different colors and sold in sheets from 25c to $5. Also sell picture postcards of some of our war leaders.

One last word. We have a powerful navy, army and air force, but the latter needs to be much stronger, the one thing we must have to gain victory.

BRITISH COLUMBIA ROADS

Sir—In your issue of yesterday, it is reported that Hon. C. B. Barry, Minister of Public Works, states that for the money we have expended on our roads we have received good value.

Well! Well! Among other instances, what about a certain stretch of about sixteen miles of road between Summerland and Peachland in the Okanagan, which was blasted through rock and silt at lake level. On account of high cost of upkeep and personal risk to travelers, owing to perpetual landslides from irrigated orchards above and lake erosion below, there was considerable agitation that this road should be abandoned and a high-level road free from these troubles, put through. For fifteen years vast sums of the taxpayers' money were thrown into this conceived and expensive enterprise for upkeep and repair, until it was finally abandoned and closed. Today there is nothing to show for the expenditure of this large sum of money—how large only the Government books will show.

The Hope-Princeton road is another glaring instance of the waste of public funds, but your valuable space will not permit me to go into details which, I believe, are generally pretty well known.

However, I would wish it clearly understood that I do not blame Captain Leary for the errors of the past, but I cannot permit his statement to go unchallenged. With our limited population we cannot expect to have the motor boulevards of our neighbors to the South, but with our big car license and considerable gasoline tax we can expect something very much better, than what we have today (particularly in the Interior) to frighten the tourists away.

So long as our roads, which mean so much for the prosperity and well-being of British Columbia, are used as a political football, so long will the slime of graft and politics adhere to them and the taxpayer will not receive one hundred cents value for his dollar.

P. G. KOOP.

Especially do we wish to mention the following: The Colonist and Times newspapers for publicity, the Hudson's Bay Co., David Spencer Limited, the Sidney Trading Co., the Deep Cove Trading Co. for allotting space where gifts could be received, the Metropolitan, Woolworth and Kresge Stores, the General Warehouse and Smith, Davidson & Wright for co-operation, the Victoria Baggage Co. for transportation of all gifts and donations free of charge, the individual friends and interested groups of the 1st Battalion in Nanaimo, Duncan, Chemainus, Salt Spring, Alberni, Port Alberni, Cumberland, Comox, Courtenay and Powell River, and the citizens of Greater Victoria who, by their donations, large and small, expressed their desire to share in this farewell gesture to the 1st Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment.

Nearly 1,000 individual parcels were distributed among the men, each containing a knitted garment, handkerchief, cigarette, a chocolate bar, package of chewing gum, shaving cream and a package of razor blades.

100 PER CENT OXYGEN USED WHEN NEEDED IS DESPERATE

A current film shows a nurse carefully watching a patient during one whole fearful night. The gradual rise in temperature is shown and when it reaches 105 degrees, the nurse wheels in the oxygen tank and the patient's life is saved.

More and more are physicians using full strength oxygen, 100 per cent, for the various ailments in lungs or impure air is remaining in which pure air is not getting to the lungs. I have written before of the great help 100 per cent oxygen has been in severe attacks of asthma in which the usual remedies failed to give relief.

Dr. John H. Evans, Buffalo, in The New York State Journal of Medicine reports his experience with 100 per cent oxygen in 800 cases where the patients were unable to get enough oxygen into their blood. The conditions included pneumonia, pulmonary emboli (plugs of mucus pus, or other material obstructing the small bronchial or air tubes), asthma, plus poisons in the lungs, heart failure and other conditions where lack of oxygen was causing serious complications. Dr. Evans found many cases where even as high as 70 per cent oxygen failed to purify the blood and it was only when the 100 per cent was used that satisfactory results were obtained.

When we remember that the amount of oxygen in the air we breathe is only about 20 per cent, we can realize how desperate is the need for oxygen at critical times.

The 100 per cent oxygen not only rids the blood of its deadly poison—carbon dioxide—and makes the patient more comfortable, but lowers the temperature and the pulse rate, and slows down the rate of breathing.

Dr. Evans advises the early use of 100 per cent oxygen in pneumonia instead of waiting until the signs of lack of oxygen appear. The oxygen quite the contrary and after the murmur has already formed is removed it often does not return.

It will be interesting for physicians to learn about the use of 100 per cent oxygen continuously for as long as weeks at a time. In fact, in some severe cases two oxygen tanks were used so that treatment was not interrupted.

Mother Not to Blame for the Children's Colds

Despite all the mother can do the kiddies will run out of doors not properly wrapped up; have on too much clothing; get overheated and cool off too suddenly; get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes, and do a dozen things the mother cannot help.
